

Cutlines:

All provided courtesy Alaska State Troopers

JBrent pistol: Mat-Su West based Alaska Wildlife Trooper Ernest Brent watches his wife, Jessica, shoot during the Significant Others Shoot Off at the 53rd Annual International Law Enforcement Pistol Competition at the Palmer law enforcement shooting range on Saturday, June 22, 2013.

CLysdahl Glock: Kodiak-based Alaska Wildlife Trooper Ralf Lysdahl watches his wife, Cyndi, shoot his pistol during the Significant Others Shoot Off at the 53rd Annual International Law Enforcement Pistol Competition at the Palmer law enforcement shooting range on Saturday, June 22, 2013.

MJohnson firing pink Glock: Mariah Johnson, wife of Alaska Wildlife Trooper Investigator Brent Johnson, takes aim with her custom Glock during the Significant Others Shoot Off at the 53rd Annual International Law Enforcement Pistol Competition at the Palmer law enforcement shooting range on Saturday, June 22, 2013.

MJohnson look target 2: From left, Mariah Johnson, wife of Alaska Wildlife Trooper Investigator Brent Johnson; Kelly Goeden, wife of AST Sgt. Chad Goeden; and Katherine Hood, wife of AST Sgt. Tim Schoenberg, concentrate on their targets before they shoot AR-15s during the Significant Others Shoot Off at the 53rd Annual International Law Enforcement Pistol Competition at the Palmer law enforcement shooting range on Saturday, June 22, 2013.

RHack AR15: RCMP Corporal Ryan Hack of Faro, Yukon uses an AR-15 to shoot a target during the tactical portion of the 53rd Annual International Law Enforcement Pistol Competition at the Palmer law enforcement shooting range on Sunday, June 23, 2013.

GRamsay shotgun faces: RCMP Sgt. Glenn Ramsay shoots a .12-gauge shotgun on the bad guys depicted by frowning faces during the tactical portion of the 53rd Annual International Law Enforcement Pistol Competition at the Palmer law enforcement shooting range on Sunday, June 23, 2013.

RLysdahl pistol face: Kodiak-based Alaska Wildlife Trooper Ralf Lysdahl moves between targets during the tactical portion of the 53rd Annual International Law Enforcement Pistol Competition at the Palmer law enforcement shooting range on Sunday, June 23, 2013.

EBrent shotgun smoke: Mat-Su West based Alaska Wildlife Trooper Ernest Brent sets his sight on a target during the tactical portion of the 53rd Annual International Law Enforcement Pistol Competition at the Palmer law enforcement shooting range on Sunday, June 23, 2013.

Wide downrange w mtn: Alaska Wildlife Trooper Investigator Brent Johnson, who is also the lead organizer when the Shoot is on Alaskan soil during the odd years, uses a .308 sniper rifle to zero in on a particular balloon down range during the tactical portion of the 53rd Annual International Law Enforcement Pistol Competition at the Palmer law enforcement shooting range on Sunday, June 23, 2013.

BJohnson downrange w mtn: Alaska Wildlife Trooper Investigator Brent Johnson, who is also the lead organizer when the Shoot is on Alaskan soil during the odd years, uses a .308 sniper rifle to zero in on a particular balloon down range during the tactical portion of the 53rd Annual International Law Enforcement Pistol Competition at the Palmer law enforcement shooting range on Sunday, June 23, 2013.

AST Barrier line: From left to right, DPS Commissioner Joseph Masters, Alaska Wildlife Trooper Ernest Brent, AST Sgt. Tim Schoenberg, Alaska Wildlife Trooper Investigator Justin Lindell, Sgt. Chad Goeden and Trooper Ralph Lysdahl use their RCMP partner's 9 mm Smith and Wesson to shoot the RCMP course of fire during the 53rd Annual International Law Enforcement Pistol Competition at the Palmer law enforcement shooting range on Sunday, June 23, 2013.

RCMP RHack line Glock: RCMP Corporal Ryan Hack of Faro, Yukon shoots his AST partner's .40-caliber Glock pistol at an AST target during the 53rd Annual International Law Enforcement Pistol Competition at the Palmer law enforcement shooting range on Sunday, June 23, 2013.

RCMP line Glock: AST Sgt. Chad Goeden, far right, watches as his RCMP shooting partner, Constable Stephen "Archie" Archibald, shoots Goeden's .40-caliber Glock during the 53rd Annual International Law Enforcement Pistol Competition at the Palmer law enforcement shooting range on Sunday, June 23, 2013.

SArchibald CGoeden switch (two photos): AST Sgt. Chad Goeden, right, and his RCMP shooting partner, Constable Stephen "Archie" Archibald, switch pistols in order to run through each other's course of fire for the second half of the team competition at the 53rd Annual International Law Enforcement Pistol Competition at the Palmer law enforcement shooting range on Sunday, June 23, 2013.

PPoulin TSchoenberg: AST Sgt. Tim Schoenberg, right, and his RCMP shooting partner, Constable Patrick Poulin, switch pistols in order to run through each other's course of fire for the second half of the team competition at the 53rd Annual International Law Enforcement Pistol Competition at the Palmer law enforcement shooting range on Sunday, June 23, 2013.

EBrent S&W barrier: Mat-Su West based Alaska Wildlife Trooper Ernest Brent uses his RCMP partner's 9 mm Smith & Wesson to run through each other's course of fire for the second half of the team competition at the 53rd Annual International Law Enforcement Pistol Competition at the Palmer law enforcement shooting range on Sunday, June 23, 2013. Sgt. Tim Schoenberg is in the background.

Masters w line: Alaska Department of Public Safety Joseph Masters fires his RCMP partner's 9 mm Smith & Wesson in order to run through each other's course of fire for the second half of the team competition at the 53rd Annual International Law Enforcement Pistol Competition at the Palmer law enforcement shooting range on Sunday, June 23, 2013. Mat-Su West based Alaska Wildlife Trooper Ernest Brent is to his right.

PClark JMasters scoring: Alaska Department of Public Safety Joseph Masters watches as Chief Superintendent Peter Clark, M Detachment commander from Whitehorse, Yukon, tallies Masters' score after he ran through the RCMP course of fire at the 53rd Annual International Law Enforcement Pistol Competition at the Palmer law enforcement shooting range on Sunday, June 23, 2013.