Introduction

Survey Purpose:

The Department of Public Safety (DPS) conducted a Commissioned Employee Engagement Survey (CEES) to:

- Gather data on employee perceptions of the work environment
- Identify job satisfaction levels
- Identify areas of strength and opportunities for improvement
- Solicit input on how to improve retention of commissioned staff members

The survey gathered data in the following areas:

- Job satisfaction
- Motivation factors for remaining employed with DPS
- Factors that could cause employees to leave DPS
- Factors that would improve employment at DPS
- Incentives to retain troopers
- Perceptions of the culture and brand of the agency

The survey also requested input for the department's strategic plan and offered an opportunity for respondents to provide ideas and comments.

Methodology:

The CEES was conducted using Survey Monkey to collect web-based survey results. Employees were notified by email of the survey by their Division Director on the day the survey opened. The survey period was October 6 – 22, 2017.

The survey consisted of 22 questions, including 11 multiple choice demographic questions, one Likert scale question, and 10 open-ended questions. Data was compiled by the department's Human Resource office.

Response Rate:

There was a 91% response rate (371 of 406 total commissioned employees). Ten percent (37) of the surveys were started but not fully completed; however, available information from the incomplete surveys was included with the survey results.

Analysis of Subgroups

Survey results were analyzed by division and subgroups in the areas of overall job satisfaction ratings and factors that would most improve employment with the department.

Overall Job Satisfaction Levels

The weighted average of responses to the question, “Overall I am satisfied with my job” were assessed by division, detachment, and the subgroups of Trooper (including troopers and investigators) and Command (including lieutenants, captains, and majors). The three groups reporting the highest satisfaction levels included: A&E Detachments, command, and AWT Northern Detachment.

Rate your agreement with the following statement, “Overall, I am satisfied with my job”

Conclusion

The Commissioned Employee Engagement Survey indicates that overall, 61% of respondents report they are satisfied with their job.

The top reason respondents reported remaining employed with the Alaska Department of Public Safety is for job stability and satisfaction, largely derived from a calling to serve the public, camaraderie amongst co-workers, and an enjoyment for the variety of work.

The top factor that could improve employment with the department is improving leadership and the support for commissioned employees serving in the field. Employees largely report desiring more communication and positive contact with command staff. Further, returning to a defined benefit retirement system was reported as a key factor in retaining commissioned staff, along with more competitive pay, lower health insurance premiums, and more monetary retention incentives.

The results overview and a comprehensive table of comments provided with the survey will be provided to department senior leadership. Suggestions from the survey will be used to inform the department's recruitment and retention initiatives, as well as a strategic plan.
