APSC Guidebook

Introduction

This guidebook is designed to provide useful tools and guidance in helping leaders train their officers through sponsored events and/or sponsored attendance at scheduled training courses or events. It will also assist agencies and their leaders in tracking their compliance with Alaska Police Standards statutes and regulations and to anticipate reporting deadlines and training milestones.

The guidebook consists of several chapters including relative Appendix A: ALASKA STATUTES and the Appendix B: APSC Administrative Code: as of July 1, 2018. The regulations in this Guidebook incorporate all changes made by the council and legislature through 2018.

While this manual may be updated from time to time, users should verify the most current versions of statute or regulation by using the most current LexisNexis Alaska Criminal and Traffic Law Manual, or the state legislature's BASIS System at <http://www.akleg.gov/basis/statutes.asp> . Electronic copies of this document, as well as updates, current forms, training calendars and other news can always be found and downloaded from APSC's website at <http://dps.alaska.gov/apsc/> .

APSC's authority dates to 1972, when the state legislature first established the Council to regulate police officers. The statutes were amended numerous times over the intervening years to add probation, parole, corrections and municipal corrections officers to our span of authority. They also removed village public safety officers (VPSOs) from our regulations and moved them to the Department of Public Safety. Village Police Officers (VPOs) remain under the authority of APSC and are distinctly different from VPSOs. APSC does not regulate Tribal Police Officers.

AS 18.65.220 (1) provides that the Council has the power to adopt regulations for the administration of AS 18.65.130 through 18.65.290. Regulations from 13 AAC 85.005 through 13 AAC 89.150 have been adopted, and modified regularly to remain relevant and progressive, with the goal of promoting professionalism and accountability among our criminal justice agencies and officers.

Council Duties, Members, and Meetings

The council has thirteen members which serve for four year terms, appointed by the Governor. Per AS 18.65.150, the composition of the council is:

- four chief administrative officers or chiefs of police of local governments;
- the commissioner of public safety or a designee of the commissioner;
- the commissioner of corrections or a designee of the commissioner;
- two persons, each of whom has been certified for five years or more by the council under this chapter, one of whom serves as a police officer and one of whom serves as a probation officer, parole officer, municipal correctional officer, or correctional officer;
- one correctional administrative officer who is employed at the level of a deputy

APSC Guidebook

- director or higher; and
- four members of the public at large with at least two from the communities of 2,500 population or less

The council is required to meet twice a year. Generally, the meetings are the first Tuesday in December in Anchorage and in April or May in conjunction with other professional meetings or conferences. The meetings follow the same general outline. The council may go into executive session to discuss subjects that may tend to prejudice the reputation and character of individual(s). Following executive session, the council will reconvene in general session which is open to the public. All decisions made by the council are done by majority vote, in the public meeting. Minutes of the council's most recent past meetings are available at <http://dps.alaska.gov/APSC/minutes.aspx>.

If you are interested in serving on the council, please refer to the Boards and Commissions website at <http://gov.alaska.gov/services/boards-and-commissions/>

Summary of required documentation and deadlines:

13 AAC 85.010 (a) requires that a police department determine a candidate meets the minimum qualifications at the time they are hired; 13 AAC 85.210 applies the same standard of hire to probation, parole, or correctional officers; and 13 AAC 85.215 applies it to municipal corrections officers.

Conducting a thorough background investigation; submitting fingerprint cards; verifying education, prior employment and references; having the applicant medically examined and mentally evaluated¹ should all be done before they are hired and begin work. The applicable APSC forms should be used during this process as it assures required information is collected and it simplifies the agency's submission of the hiring packet to APSC once the officer starts work.

Getting police officers onboard or separated from your agency

13 AAC 85.090 provides that a participating police department must report to APSC, within 30 days of:

1. Hiring a police officer,
2. An officer's separation from the agency. If separation was a result of termination; resignation in lieu of termination; or occurred while an officer was under investigation for any allegation of dishonesty, misconduct, or lack of good moral character; the agency must also report the reason the officer is no longer employed by the agency, and
3. Sustained allegations of conduct that may disqualify the officer under 13 AAC 85.010 (a) or (b) or 13 AAC 85.110 following an administrative investigation or review by the agency.

All of the above actions can be documented on APSC's Personnel Action Form (the F-4 Form)

13 AAC 85.010 (c) and (d) provide that agencies have 30 days after hiring a police officer to report to APSC that the officer meets the minimum standards for a police officer by submitting required documentation. This is done with the following Forms²:

F-1	Compliance Form	https://dps.alaska.gov/APSC/Agency-Forms
F-2A	Health Questionnaire	https://dps.alaska.gov/APSC/Agency-Forms
F-2B	Medical Exam Report	https://dps.alaska.gov/APSC/Agency-Forms

¹ Note that 2016 regulatory changes mandate all police officers must have a psychological fitness for duty evaluation for duty before they are hired. Contact APSC if you have any questions or need assistance with complying with this requirement.

If your candidate has a home school diploma, please refer to Dealing with Home School & High School Diplomas.

If your candidate has a college degree, APSC will take notice that their college admission required high school graduation and a high school diploma is not required if certified college transcripts are submitted with their F-3 and other required documents; Refer to Providing College Transcripts for additional information.

Getting police officers trained and certified

13 AAC 85.010 (e) provides that an agency has 6 months to enroll³ a police officer in a basic training academy; they must have completed an academy, as well as a field training program, within the 12 months of being hired. An agency should submit their request for basic training immediately after an officer is hired to ensure they are enrolled and can complete a basic training academy within the regulated time period. The most recent relevant Council forms and training guides are:

F-5	Application for Basic Training	https://dps.alaska.gov/APSC/Agency-Forms

F-23	Field Training Final Report (Police Officers)	https://dps.alaska.gov/APSC/Agency-Forms
FTM	Field Training Manual	Contact APSC for the most recent copy

13 AAC 85.020 provides that a police officer may not be employed beyond 13 months by an agency without that officer obtaining certification as a police officer, unless granted an extension of up to 6 months by the Council for specified reasons. Any extension request should be submitted by the chief administrative officer of the agency, on agency letterhead, to APSC. APSC cannot extend this requirement beyond 19 months from date of hire.

Intermediate and Advanced Police Officer Certifications

13 AAC 85.040 describes the various levels of police officer certification and the relative service time, education, and/or training required for each.

Other than for basic officer certification, APSC does not actively track officers' certification eligibility, as they are unique to each individual's combined experience, education and training. It is up to each officer and their agency to monitor certification eligibility and apply for more advanced levels when they become eligible. APSC staff members are always available to answer specific questions about eligibility and are happy to preview cases on an individual basis. The F-7, Application for Certification, is ³ As used here, "enroll" means to have applied to APSC for basic training (F-5 Form) and been accepted and enrolled in the next available academy.

the required form to submit for each level of certification

If an officer is relying upon college education and/or an awarded college degree or certificate program as part of their qualifications for their next level of certification, please refer to Providing College Transcripts.

Getting probation, parole, corrections & municipal corrections officers onboard or separated from your agency

13 AAC 85.250 (a) provides that within 30 days after the date that a probation, parole, correctional, or municipal correctional officer is appointed by a correctional agency, the correctional agency shall notify the council.

13 AAC 85.210 (c) and (d) provide that the Alaska Department of Corrections certify that the officer meets the requirements of 13 AAC 85.210 (a) and (c); by submitting supporting documentation within 90 days of the officer being hired.

13 AAC 85.215 (c) and (d) provide that an agency hiring a municipal corrections officer shall notify APSC of the hiring; certify that the officer meets the requirements of 13 AAC 85.215 (a) and (b); and, submit supporting documentation within 30 days of the officer being hired.

The following forms should be used to report the hiring and document the eligibility of probation, parole, corrections & municipal corrections officers:

F-1	Compliance Form	https://dps.alaska.gov/APSC/Agency-Forms
F-2A	Health Questionnaire	https://dps.alaska.gov/APSC/Agency-Forms
F-2B	Medical Exam Report	https://dps.alaska.gov/APSC/Agency-Forms
F-3	Personal History Statement	https://dps.alaska.gov/APSC/Agency-Forms
F-4	Personnel Action Form	https://dps.alaska.gov/APSC/Agency-Forms
F-11	Psychological Evaluation Form	https://dps.alaska.gov/APSC/Agency-Forms

Note that a psychological fitness exam is not specifically required by regulation for a municipal corrections officer; however, the agency must certify that the officer is, “mentally and emotionally capable of performing the essential functions of the job of municipal correctional officer and is free from any emotional disorder that may adversely affect the person's performance as a municipal correctional officer.” APSC recommends that this be determined through a psychological fitness for duty exam and documented with an F-11 form.

If your candidate has a home school diploma, please refer to Dealing with Home School & High School Diplomas.

Getting probation, parole, correctional, & municipal correctional officers trained and certified

13 AAC 85.210 (e) provides that Alaska Department of Corrections must submit, within 12 months of hiring a probation, parole, or corrections officer, documentation that the officer has successfully completed the required field training program.

13 AAC 85.215 (e) provides that an agency must submit, within 6 months of hiring a municipal corrections officer, documentation that the officer has successfully completed the required field training program. The municipal corrections officer must attend the Municipal Corrections Officer Training Academy, sponsored by APSC and AK DOC before the end of their 12 month probationary period. The F-5 form can be used to request attendance and sponsorship for this academy.

13 AAC 85.220 provides that a probation, parole, corrections or municipal corrections officer may not be employed beyond 14 months by an agency without that officer obtaining certification, unless granted an extension of up to 6 months by the Council for specified reasons. Any extension request should be submitted by the chief administrative officer of the agency, on agency letterhead, to APSC. APSC cannot extend this requirement beyond 20 months from date of hire.

Village Police Officers and Tribal Police Officers

13 AAC 89.010 (b) provides that only a village⁴ can appoint a village police officer (VPO). A village shall notify APSC within 30 days of the date of hire of a VPO, except in those instances where a public record of the appointment would jeopardize the officer or the assignment.

Tribal police officers (TPO) are normally appointed by a village tribal council or unincorporated community and may have tribal public safety responsibilities.

⁴ 13 AAC 89.150 (3) - "Village" means a community off the interconnected Alaska road system, with a population of less than 1,000 persons based on the most recent federal census, which has been incorporated as provided in AS 29.18.

APSC Guidebook

TPOs do not qualify as “Police Officers” under Alaska law and do not have the authority of a police officer. TPOs are not regulated by the Alaska Police Standards Council. Additionally, tribal justice agencies do not qualify as police departments under current state statutes.⁵

In order to comply with the requirements of AS 18.65.220(8), AS 18.65.230(b), AS 18.65.240(d), 13 AAC 89.020, and 13 AAC 89.080, before hiring an officer, the village must:

1. Conduct, or have conducted a basic background investigation to assure the officer is of good moral character⁶;
2. Submit two sets of fingerprint cards for the officer to APSC who will utilize the cards for a criminal background check;
3. Have the officer complete the F-2A form and be examined by a medical professional to assure they are physically fit for the duties of the position; and
4. Have the officer and appointing authorities complete and sign the remaining necessary forms and submit them to APSC. (Note that several of these forms require a notarized signature).

If an officer was hired without the above steps completed, all the steps will be required before they can/will be sent to a basic training academy. Officers who do not meet the above criteria or who submit incomplete documentation will not be authorized to attend APSC certified training or the basic training academy.

The VPO must attend a basic training academy within the first 12 months; however, this may be extended upon request of the chief administrative officer of the department or village. A village cannot employ an uncertified VPO beyond 12 months.

The employing agency must notify the council within 30 days following termination of an officer for any reason.

Forms used for reporting and documenting are:

F-4	Personnel Action Form	https://dps.alaska.gov/APSC/Agency-Forms
F-5	Application for Basic Training	https://dps.alaska.gov/APSC/Agency-Forms

⁶ Villages who are members of the AML/JIA should contact AML/JIA who will conduct a background check at no cost. For other villages, please contact APSC for a list of service providers who can conduct a basic background check for a reasonable fee.

Note that a psychological fitness exam is not required for a VPO.

Dealing with Home School & High School Diplomas

13 AAC 85.010 (a) states; A participating police department may not hire a person as a police officer unless the person meets the following minimum qualifications at the time of hire has a state recognized high school diploma, a diploma from a home school program recognized or certified by a state or by a local school district within a state as having met that state's graduation requirements, or has passed a General Educational Development (GED) test. 13 AAC 85.210 has the exact same language for probation, parole and corrections officers. Village police officers and municipal corrections officers do not have to possess a high school diploma.

To validate an applicant's high school diploma, APSC requires a certified copy of the high school transcripts be sent to APSC from the school. Alternatively, if the hiring agency has already obtained their own certified copies of the transcripts from the school, the agency can copy them and 'recertify' them for APSC.

Alaska has long valued and supported the educational option of home schooling. Unfortunately, there is no 'certification' for homeschool programs, other than those conducted under the supervision of one of the many school districts. In this case, graduating students often receive a diploma from the school district rather than the home school itself. For those applicants who did graduate from an independent home school, APSC strives to assure their level of education meets minimum high school graduation requirements for their state to assure the officer's ability to complete a basic academy and excel in their chosen profession.

To have APSC recognize an applicant's independent home school diploma as meeting this standard, they must have their program of instruction evaluated by a school district or state department of education, as meeting the high school graduation requirements for that state. This is most often accomplished by having the applicant meet with a high school counsellor or principal in their nearest high school and providing them copies of the student records that document courses received and passing performance. APSC considers a letter from an official with the school district, certifying that the documented course of instruction meets state graduation requirements, as adequate evidence the applicant meets APSC's high school standard.

The review and certification process can take some time and effort on the part of the applicant. It can even take longer if local schools are on summer or holiday break. Applicants with independent home school diplomas should be encouraged to begin this process as soon as they apply to an agency in Alaska. As mentioned previously in this Guidebook, APSC will take notice of high school completion for those homeschooled applicants who have graduated with a college degree, provided the applicant submits certified copies of their college transcripts.

Providing College Transcripts

For APSC to recognize college degrees achieved, college credit to apply toward certification, or to qualify an officer for instructor certification the certified transcripts should be sent directly from the institution to APSC. APSC does verify that the institution is recognized by the US Department of Education (<http://ope.ed.gov/accreditation/Search.aspx>) to assure the educational documentation is valid. Once transcripts are provided to APSC and are in an officer's file, they need not be provided again unless additional coursework has been added.

Records Requests:

In most cases, all APSC records regarding officers, as well as certified trainers and training courses are confidential pursuant to 13 AAC 85.010 (d), 13 AAC 85.210 (d), 13 AAC 85.215 (d), 13 AAC 89.080 (d) and a variety of State and Federal laws. Other than as described below, confidential records are released only by court order.

Officers may request copies of documents they've submitted to APSC as well as their training records using this form. Once completed the form can be faxed, e-mailed or mailed to APSC.

Agencies wishing to inquire with APSC about an officer's suitability for hire should submit the following form. Responses to this inquiry will vary depending upon the information in file:

- If an officer's file contains no adverse information, the requesting agency will be so advised;
- If an officer's file contains adverse information, the requesting agency may be provided with relevant records; they will also be directed to the source agency of that information and advised to contact the source agency for specific details;
- If APSC has revoked a certificate or determined an officer is ineligible for certification the requesting agency will be so advised and provided with copies of related documents.

Agencies holding a valid release of information form from an applicant may request copies of specific APSC forms previously submitted by the applicant or their former agencies.

Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) or Alaska public records requests result only in the release of documents already publicly available; such as an Accusation or other documents filed with the Alaska Office of Administrative Hearings, a Council Decision and Order, or other official Council findings that may reside in an officer's file.

BACKGROUND INVESTIGATIONS & REPORTING DISQUALIFIED APPLICANTS to APSC

Background Investigations:

APSC has always required a thorough investigation into the background of applicants for certified positions to assure they meet the minimum requirements for certification and will adhere to professional ethics and community expectations.

At minimum, each agency should:

- (a) Obtain proof of age, citizenship status, and education. APSC requires a birth certificate or US Passport and high school transcripts (see Dealing with Home School & High School Diplomas, if appropriate).
- (b) Obtain fingerprints on two copies of FBI Applicant Cards and forward both cards to the automated fingerprint identification section of the Department of Public Safety. Importantly, do not neglect to compare the response to these fingerprint submissions with the information supplied by the applicant. If an agency lacks the ability to submit fingerprint cards directly to the State, applicant cards may be submitted to APSC who will see they are processed for the agency. APSC cannot authorize any training or certify any individual who has not had a fingerprint based background check⁷.
- (c) Obtain a complete personal history of the person on a form supplied by the council; This is the NOTARIZED APSC Personal History Statement (F-3)
- (d) Conduct a thorough personal history investigation of the person to determine character traits and habits indicative of moral character and fitness as a police officer; At a minimum, this inquiry should include:
 - (1) criminal history, wants, and warrants; APSIN, NCIC, as well as DMV and III inquiries for each state the applicant formerly lived in (keep copies of all print outs in the applicant's file, and forward copies of any criminal history to APSC). Lacking access to these computer systems, an agency should, at the very least, review Alaska Courtview records for the applicant.
 - (2) verified job references from at least three previous employers unless the person has had less than three previous jobs;
 - (3) verified job references from all previous law enforcement or criminal justice system employers in the preceding 10 years. APSC strongly encourages agencies to contact all agencies an applicant may have applied previously to determine why an applicant may not have been selected for hire; and

⁷ AS 18.65.230 and 240

APSC Guidebook

- (4) at least two verified personal references.
- (e) Obtain a complete medical history report of the person. This report must be given to a licensed physician, advanced practice registered nurse, or physician assistant to use as a basis in conducting a physical examination of the person to determine their physical fitness for the position. These are APSC's Health Questionnaire (F-2a) and Medical Examination Report (F2b) forms.
- (f) For all positions, other than a Village Police Officer or Municipal Corrections officer; require the person undergo an examination by a licensed psychiatrist or psychologist to determine they are mentally fit for the position. This step is documented by the psychiatrist or psychologist signing the Psychological Evaluation Form (F-11).
- (g) Through APSC, the National Decertification Index, and by contacting all other relevant state standards and training organizations, determine whether the applicant:
 - (1) has been denied certification, has had the person's basic certification revoked, or has surrendered the person's basic certificate, in this state or another jurisdiction, and whether the denial, revocation, or surrender has been rescinded by APSC or by the responsible certifying agency of the issuing jurisdiction; or
 - (2) is under suspension of a basic certification in another jurisdiction, for the period of the suspension, and whether the suspension has been rescinded by the responsible certifying agency of the issuing jurisdiction.

Agencies are encouraged to adopt additional background investigative steps as they deem appropriate, these may include, but are not limited to, truth verification testing, interviews of past neighbors, developing and interviewing third party references and interviewing present and past family members. Our experience is that investing in a quality background investigation is well worth the effort.

All the above steps must be documented; documentation must be retained in agency files and, is subject to APSC inspection.

If any agency needs help or advice in conducting a competent background investigation they are strongly encouraged to contact APSC for assistance.

Reporting Disqualified Applicants to APSC:

In 2017, APSC adopted regulation changes designed to make it clear to officer applicants and self-pay applicants to police academies, that information they supplied on required APSC forms would be used to determine their eligibility, or disqualification from, certification, training and employment as an officer in Alaska. This was done to provide a mechanism for APSC to identify individual applicants who were determined to be temporarily or permanently disqualified for hire or certification based on past criminal conduct, illegal drug use, supplying false or misleading information on applications and forms, lying to background investigators, and/or a demonstrated lack of good moral character. Importantly, the changes also afforded an applicant due process to appeal a decision by APSC that they were found to be ineligible for employment, training, or certification.

APSC regulations encourage agencies to provide APSC with applicant's APSC forms and a description of their agency findings for those applicants they determined to be disqualified during their hiring process. This was done to reduce the likelihood a disqualified candidate might be hired by another agency following a less than thorough background investigation and to support a central repository for disqualified applicant information, thereby reducing the significant number of repetitive and redundant pre-employment screening and background investigations conducted by multiple agencies. Following due-process, once determined to be disqualified, individuals will be listed as disqualified in APSC files and the National Decertification Index (NDI): See "Appendix C: About the National Decertification Index or NDI"

In this instance, 'disqualification' means that their application, supporting documents, subsequent background investigation or admissions, or a physical or psychological evaluation determined that they were clearly disqualified based upon APSC standards; it does not mean the applicant merely did not meet agency requirements or that there were more qualified or experienced applicants who were hired.

Normally, this would be due to past criminal conduct or convictions, admissions of illegal drug use within the past five years, supplying false or misleading information on applications and forms, lying to background investigators, demonstrated lack of good moral character, or lack of mental fitness for the position due to mental disorder, disease, or defect.

APSC Personal History Statement (F-3) forms specifically authorize agencies to report these findings to APSC. All agencies are STRONGLY URGED to report rejected and disqualified applicants (using the Personnel Action form, F-4) and to check with APSC very early in the recruitment process to assure potential applicants have not previously been determined disqualified by APSC.

APSC Guidebook

FORMS & INSTRUCTIONS

All forms are available from: <https://dps.alaska.gov/APSC/Agency-Forms>. Officers, applicants and agencies are strongly encouraged to use the latest forms from this website rather than relying upon older versions downloaded previously.

F-1 (Compliance Form):

This form is essentially a checklist for an agency to certify that all the required pre-hire steps were taken to assure an officer is qualified for their position. It needs to be completed and submitted to APSC, along with the accompanying documents and forms, within 30 days of hire.

F-2A&B (Medical):

The F-2A is a Health Questionnaire to be completed by the applicant and taken with them to be reviewed and signed by the medical professional conducting their medical examination. Note that when signing, the language states that the officer is signing under penalty of perjury that the information is true, but does not require their signature be notarized. A licensed physician, advanced practice registered nurse, or physician assistant must review and sign the form.

The F-2B is a Medical Examination Report to be completed and signed by a licensed physician, advanced practice registered nurse or physician assistant. The medical personnel must check the appropriate box on the last page to confirm the applicant can physically perform the duties of a police officer and sign the form. These forms are submitted with the hire packet.

If an officer is coming from another Alaskan agency, even with no break in service, new F-2A & B forms must be submitted within 30 days of hire.

F-3 (Personal History):

This form is completed by the officer, ideally during the initial application process. It is an extremely important document that must be signed, notarized and submitted as part of the hire packet. Additional documents required to be submitted with the F-3 are a copy of a birth certificate or passport and DD-214 (if prior military). If naturalized, a Naturalization Certificate is required. An official high school transcript or GED transcript is required (see Dealing with Home School & High School Diplomas). The school should send the transcript directly to APSC. The F-3 form is submitted to APSC with the hire packet, if not before.

This form, the F-2A and F-2B, are also required for any individual who is not currently an officer applying to pay their own way through one of the APSC certified academies. Their application for attendance in an academy is subject to APSC review to determine if they are qualified and physically fit to become a certified officer in Alaska. Applicants who are not qualified, or will not be by the time they graduate from an academy, are not approved for attendance. APSC provides no financial support to individuals who are not already employed full time by an agency. Citizens interested in pursuing academy attendance are urged to work closely with the academy director, well in advance of the academy's scheduled start date, to assure all required documents are completed and approved by APSC.

Applicants should be encouraged to thoroughly complete this form with as much attention to detail as possible. Errors or omissions from the form are frequent causes for applicants not being hired or officers later being subject to APSC action against their certification. Any box checked "yes" must have an explanation, either in the associated space, the final page, or separate attachment. Often, applicants will check they've had fingerprints before, but omit why or where these were taken; forms submitted without explanations cause delays and may be returned to be completed.

Careful attention should be taken to any listing of prior criminal justice experience or certification. These should always be followed up by contacting those agencies during a background investigation and a check with the National Decertification Index (NDI)⁸ and/or APSC. If your candidate was a former California peace officer and is no longer with a California agency, please contact APSC for additional guidance⁹.

If an officer is coming from another Alaskan agency, even with no break in service, a new F-3 form must be submitted within 30 days of hire.

F-4 (Personnel Action):

This form must be submitted when ANY personnel action occurs with an officer, *including a sustained finding of misconduct that did not arise to the level of termination, but may disqualify them from maintaining their certification*¹⁰. If the action is a separation, there are explanatory 'boxes' in the separation section that MUST be completed, explaining the circumstances surrounding the separation. If the officer was terminated or resigned while under investigation, your agency recommends decertification, or you would not rehire the officer, you MUST provide a detailed explanation.

The F-4 is to be submitted to APSC by the agency within 30 days of hire, separation or sustained misconduct allegations that may disqualify them from certification.

F-5 (Request for Basic Training):

This form is used when an agency is requesting authorization for training at either the Department of Public Safety Alaska Law Enforcement Academy (ALET) in Sitka, the University of Alaska-Fairbanks Community Technical College (CTC), the annual APSC-sponsored Recertification Academy or the municipal corrections officer academy.

⁸ If someone within your agency does not already have access to this free resource and they need access, they can sign up using this link. Note that not all states participate in this program, nor do all states certify officers. For more information, refer to Appendix C: About the National Decertification Index or NDI

⁹ California has some interesting rules about decertification and it is best to discuss these with APSC before conducting a background check for a former California police officer.

¹⁰ Please refer to regulations for basic qualifications and revocation of certificates for the appropriate position.

APSC Guidebook

Out-of-state officers may only need to attend the APSC-sponsored Recertification Academy if they have graduated from an academy that meets APSC standards and are approved by the APSC Director. The Director should be contacted for a determination, since each situation is reviewed on an individual basis and it often takes time to research prior training academy curriculum.

Out-of-state or Alaska lateral chief hires are not required to attend academy training if they will be performing administrative duties only, although they must receive mandatory domestic violence, sexual assault, and disability awareness training which is provided at the annual Recertification Academy. If they anticipate that they will be involved with any “street/operational” duties, they should complete an appropriate academy and are encouraged to pursue APSC certification.

F-6 (Course Completion):

This form is completed by an instructor upon completion of a training segment and is submitted to APSC for input into individual officer training records. Download Form

F-7 (Application for Certification):

This form is used to apply for a Basic, Intermediate or Advanced Certificate. If it is determined that college is required for eligibility, official college transcripts¹¹ must be submitted unless they are already on file with APSC. The college should send the transcript directly to APSC. A $50 check or money order for each certificate must accompany the F-7 and the agency or department head must sign page 2.

CERTIFICATION REQUIREMENTS: (F-7):

Basic Certificate Documentation Packet:

Officer must apply following one year of continuous, full-time, paid employment with one Alaska agency. The application must have:

- Academy or Recertification Academy graduation certificate,
- F-23 signed by the chief administrative officer of the agency, and
- $50 check payable to APSC

Intermediate & Advanced Police Certification Documentation Packet:

Officers can apply for the next level of certification when they become eligible based on experience, education and training¹². Note that to obtain Advanced Police Certification they must first be issued an Intermediate Certificate. The submission must include:

- $50 check payable to APSC and
- Official college transcripts are required if not already on file with APSC

F-9 (Application for Instructor Certificate):

This form is used to apply for instructor certification. Proof of completion of qualifying training and education must be attached if the qualifying training course did not

¹¹ See Providing College Transcripts

¹² For requirements please refer to 13 AAC 85.040. Basic, intermediate, and advanced certificates

APSC Guidebook

provide the proof directly to APSC or APSC does not already have these in the instructor's file. There are several categories of instructor certification, so please review the appropriate regulations in 13 AAC 87.040, Download Form

F-11 (Psychological Evaluation Form)

This form is submitted after the agency hires the applicant, following a pre-hire (conditional-hire) examination of an applicant by the examining psychiatrist or psychologist. It provides simple documentation that the examination found the applicant to be mentally capable of performing the essential functions of the job of police, probation, parole or corrections officer and that they appear free from any emotional disorder that may adversely affect the person's performance as an officer. APSC recommends this form be completed after the agency reviews a thorough and detailed psychological evaluation report and decides to employ the applicant. Submitting the doctor's detailed psychological report to APSC, along with the F-11, is not necessary and is discouraged in most cases.

A psychological exam and report are required for all police, corrections, probation and parole officers; this includes lateral hires from agencies where the officer was previously given a psychological evaluation. The evaluation form is recommended, but not required, for municipal corrections officers.

F-20 (Application for Course Certification):

This form is used to request that APSC approve the content of the training for a specific course. A course lesson plan must be attached (outlines do not suffice). It is best to work with APSC in advance to assure the necessary documents are submitted along with the form. This form must be submitted with an F-9. Please note: APSC will recognize training courses or programs already certified by the National Certification Program (NCP) of IADLEST (<https://www.iadlest.org/>) without subjecting the course to additional evaluation. Download Form

F-23 (Field Training Completion):

This form is filled out upon completion of a minimum of 40 hours of field training with the hiring agency. This form is the last page of APSC's Field Training Manual and is available separately for those agencies that have their own manuals or systems. Do not send the entire Manual to APSC. The F-23 may be submitted to APSC at any time during the first 12 months from the date of hire and is required before a Basic Certificate can be issued.

Funding Assistance Request Form:

An agency will use this form to request APSC funds to assist with training related events. (Do not use this form for academy assistance, use the F-5). Funds may be used to sponsor individual department members' travel, lodging, and tuition costs; cover the costs associated with bringing a course and trainers to the department or region; or, purchase materials for training events.

Include a breakdown of the funding requested and provide documentation for preliminary travel costs for air, ferry, rental car, mileage, hotel, and registration fee. Also, provide the names of the officers attending the training or the instructor's name. APSC does not pay per diem. The agency head needs to sign and print their name on the form. Each request is reviewed and either approved or disapproved by the Director based on current finances and the relative need for the training requested.

APSC does not provide tuition assistance to officers seeking college tuition support in pursuit of a degree.

Whenever possible, travel arrangements for pre-approved training should be made by the officer or their agency. While APSC can make travel arrangements, the process is cumbersome, requires multiple levels of state approval, and often is more expensive and less flexible than if the officer or their department makes their own arrangements and is reimbursed by APSC.

Records Request- Applicant/Employee Request:

This form is submitted to APSC by individuals requesting information from their own APSC file.

Records Request- Agency Request:

This form is submitted to APSC by an agency seeking information on an officer who a department is considering for hire.

Public Records Request:

APSC is a government agency and subject to the provisions of the Alaska Public Records Act, AS 40.25¹³. Many of APSC records are confidential and not subject to release under this act. Public Records may be requested online at: <https://dps.alaska.gov/AST/PIO/PublicInformationRequest> your request should include a specific reference to APSC records.

Sec. 18.65.130. Policy.

The administration of criminal justice affects the health, safety, and welfare of the people of this state and requires education and training of a professional quality. It is a primary public interest that applicants meet minimum standards for employment as police officers, probation and parole officers, and correctional officers, and that criminal justice education and training be made available to police officers, probation and parole officers, and correctional officers serving in a probationary capacity and police officers, probation and parole officers, and correctional officers already in regular service. It is of secondary public interest to encourage the establishment of preliminary training programs for persons seeking to become police officers, probation and parole officers, and correctional officers. (b) A political subdivision with an established police training program meeting the requirements of AS 18.65.220 (2) and (3) may exclude itself from the requirements of AS 18.65.240 by ordinance. The exclusion has no effect on eligibility to receive federal or state grants.

Sec. 18.65.285. Municipal correctional employees.

A municipality that employs persons in a municipal correctional facility may, by ordinance, require that those persons meet the requirements of AS 18.65.130 - 18.65.290 that are applicable to municipal correctional officers.

I will keep my private life unsullied as an example to all; maintain courageous calm in the face of danger, scorn, or ridicule; develop self-restraint; and be constantly mindful of the welfare of others.

Honest in thought and deed in both my personal and official life, I will be exemplary in obeying the laws of the land and the regulations of my department. Whatever I see or hear of a confidential nature or that is confided to me in my official capacity will be kept ever secret unless revelation is necessary in the performance of my duty. I will never act officiously or permit personal feelings, prejudices, animosities, or friendships to influence my decisions. With no compromise for crime and with relentless prosecution of criminals, I will enforce the law courteously and appropriately without fear or favor, malice or ill will, never employing unnecessary force or violence, and never accepting gratuities. I will recognize the badge of my office as a symbol of public faith, and I accept it as a public trust to be held so long as I am true to the ethics of the police service. I will constantly strive to achieve these objectives and ideals, dedicating myself (before God)* to my chosen profession . . . law enforcement.

Appendix C: The National Decertification Index

Appendix C: About the National Decertification Index or NDI

The purpose of the National Decertification Index (NDI) is to serve as a national registry or index of certificate or license revocation actions relating to officer misconduct. The records contained in the NDI are provided by participating state government agencies and should be verified with the contributing authority. Inclusion in the database does not necessarily preclude any individual from appointment as an officer.

The President's Task Force on 21st Century Policing recommended that the US Department of justice support the expansion of the "National Register of Decertified Officers with the goal of covering all agencies within the United States and its territories¹⁶." Because every state has different statutes and regulations regarding officer qualifications, training, certification, and revocation it is unlikely that every state will be able to contribute to the system, but all states do have access to the system for conducting background checks, and several federal agencies, including the US DoD are participating.

As of the date of this document The NDI contained 24,423 actions reported by 43 states.

The NDI is maintained and operated by the International Association of Directors of Law Enforcement Standards and Training¹⁷ (IADLEST). IADLEST is an international organization of training managers and executives dedicated to the improvement of public safety personnel and serves as the national forum of Peace Officer Standards and Training (POST) agencies, boards, and commissions as well as statewide training academies throughout the United States. Alaska is an active participant in IADLEST and is a contributor and user of the NDI. Individuals requiring access to the NDI can contact APSC or begin the enrollment process at <https://www.iadlest.org/our-services/ndi/about-ndi>
