ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The 1983 Uniform Crime Report for the State of Alaska was compiled from data submitted to the Department of Public Safety from twenty-four law enforcement agencies within Alaska. The excellent cooperation offered the Department of Public Safety by the Chiefs of Police and agency heads is gratefully acknowledged.

Special appreciation is extended to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Uniform Crime Reporting Section for the assistance provided to the Alaska program.

Crime in Alaska

The Department of Public Safety was delegated the responsibility for the Alaska Uniform Crime Statistical Program in 1982. This program is the primary source of data used to measure the trend and distributions of Crime in Alaska. The total information consolidated and analyzed by the Alaska Uniform Crime Reporting program is more extensive than that contained in this publication. Requests for additional information or analysis of this data should be directed to the UCR Statistical Program in Juneau, Alaska.

Uniform Crime Reporting Program Summary

Introduction

The Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Program is a nationwide cooperative effort of nearly 16,000 city, county, and state law enforcement agencies. This voluntary reporting program makes it possible to assess lawlessness in the Nation and to gauge fluctuations in the amount and type of crime. The primary UCR objective is to generate a reliable set of criminal statistics for use in law enforcement administration, operation, and management. Utilization of the UCR data produced has expanded substantially. The American public, demonstrating its concern regarding the crime problem, has shown increasing interest in crime statistics. Further, UCR data have become a research tool for the use of criminologists, sociologists, legislators, municipal planners, the press, and other students of criminal justice.

Historical Background

In the 1920s, the International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP) recognized a need for national crime statistics and formed the Committee on Uniform Crime Records to develop a viable system of uniform police statistics. After studying state criminal codes and making an evaluation of the recordkeeping practices in use, the Committee in 1929 finalized a plan for crime reporting which became the foundation of the UCR Program.

Since offenses known to law enforcement were the most readily available crime information, the Committee elected to survey local agencies to obtain data on crimes brought to their attention. Realizing that not all crimes are reported, the Committee evaluated various offenses on the basis of their seriousness, frequency of occurrence, pervasiveness in all geographic parts of the country, and likelihood of being reported to law enforcement. Using those criteria, seven offenses were chosen to serve as an Index for gauging fluctuations in the overall volume and rate of crime. These crimes, known jointly as the Crime Index, included the violent crimes of murder and nonnegligent manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery, and aggravated assault; and the property crimes of burglary, larceny-theft, and motor vehicle theft. By congressional mandate, arson was added as the eighth Index offense in 1979.

During the early planning of the Program, it was recognized that the differences among criminal codes precluded a mere aggregation of state statistics to arrive at a national total. Further, because of the variances in punishment for the same offenses in different state codes, no distinction between felony and misdemeanor crimes was possible. To overcome these problems and provide nationwide uniformity in crime reporting, standardized offenses definitions were formulated. The law enforcement agencies would then submit data in accordance with the UCR standard definitions of offenses.

In January, 1930, Congress enacted legislation under Title 28, Section 534, of the United States Code authorizing the Attorney General to gather crime information. The Attorney General, in turn, designated the FBI to serve as the national clearinghouse for data collected by the Program. Since that time, data based on uniform classifications and procedures for reporting have been obtained from the Nation's law enforcement agencies.

Data Reporting

The FBI receives the information its contributors compile either directly from the local law enforcement agency or through a state-level UCR Program. State-level UCR Programs have been very effective intermediaries between the FBI and its local contributors. Many of the 41 state Programs have mandatory reporting requirements and collect data beyond the national UCR scope to address crime problems germane to their particular locales. These agencies can also provide more direct and frequent services to participating law enforcement agencies, make information more readily available for use at the state level, and contribute to more streamlined operations at the national level.

Data reliability is a high priority of the UCR Program and noted deviations or arithmetical adjustments are monitored and brought to the attention of the submitting agency. A standard procedure of the FBI is to study the monthly reports and to evaluate periodic trends prepared for individual reporting units. Any significant increase or decrease noted is made the subject of a special inquiry to that agency.

Training

To assist contributors in complying with UCR standards, the national and state UCR Program provides training seminars and instructional materials in crime reporting procedures. Liaison with state Programs and law enforcement personnel is maintained, and training sessions are held to explain the purpose of the Program, the rules of uniform classification and scoring, and the methods of assembling the information for reporting.

UCR Future Development

In 1984, a conference on the future of Uniform Crime Reporting was held in Elkridge, Maryland. The conference was part of the study of the UCR Program being funded by the Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS) and conducted by an independent research group, Abt Associates, Inc. Conference attendees were given the opportunity to review work conducted during the first phase of the study and to discuss potential changes to the UCR Program that should be considered and evaluated in its second phase. Representatives of law enforcement agencies, law enforcement membership organizations, the research community, state UCR programs, statistical analysis centers, other criminal justice agencies, the National Crime Survey Redesign Consortium, the Bureau of the Census, and the Canadian Centre for Justice Statistics participated in the conference, as did staff members from the BJS, the national UCR Program, and Abt Associates.

The seventh National UCR Conference was held July 9-12, 1984, at the FBI Academy, Quantico, Virginia. The major topic of discussion was the progress of the UCR study. At the conference, the staff of Abt Associates reported findings from the evaluation's first phase, and conference attendees offered their views on alternatives for the future direction of UCR to be developed in phase two, now underway. To ensure input from interested groups, the conference attendees included representatives from 20 large police departments; staff members from the state UCR Programs; members of the Committee on Uniform Crime Reporting Committee of the NSA, and the Steering Committee for the UCR evaluation; and staff from the BJS, Bureau of Social Science Research, and Police Executive Research Forum.

Crime Analysis - Alaska and the United States

Introduction

The review of crime statistics must be accomplished with the understanding that many additional factors impact the data being reviewed. The causes, contributing circumstances and origins of crime have been investigated and hypothesized for many years. The only conclusions which have resulted, are that the following factors affect crime occurrence.

- Economic conditions of area.
- Stability of population - transient population factors.
- Population density and age structure of area.
- Climate
- Number of law enforcement officers.
- Law enforcement agency community profile relative to policy and investigative emphasis.
- Policies and emphasis of other criminal justice agencies (judicial, prosecutorial, correctional and probational).
- Attitudes of citizenry towards crime, crime prevention programs and support of law enforcement agencies.

The Uniform Crime reports give the Alaska and total United States view of crime based on statistics contributed by state and local law enforcement agencies. Population size is the only correlate of crime utilized in this publication. While the other factors listed above are of equal concern, no attempt is made to relate them to the data presented. The reader is, therefore, cautioned against comparing statistical data of individual reporting units solely on the basis of their population, region, or location.

Analysis

The total 1983 Part I Crime Index offenses were up over 6 percent above 1982 for Alaska. However, the crime rate per 100,000 inhabitants dropped 4 percent for the State. On a nationwide scale, there was a decrease of 7 percent Part I Offenses for the same period. Violent crime - murders, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault increased over 9 percent in Alaska and dropped 5 percent on a nationwide basis. Analysis of each category of violent crime in Alaska revealed that criminal homicide decreased 20 percent, forcible rape increased by 31 percent, robbery decreased 26 percent and aggravated assault increased by 16 percent. A significant factor in reviewing the homicide statistics is that a large number of homicides which were unknown in 1983 and previous years have been discovered as a result of an investigation and subsequent conviction of an individual in 1984. For Alaska the total property crime offenses - burglary, larceny/theft and motor vehicle theft - increased 6 percent while the property crime rate per 100,000 inhabitants decreased 4 percent. On a nationwide basis, the total number of property crimes decreased 7 percent in 1983. Arson decreased by 12 percent in Alaska. On a nationwide basis, arson showed an 11 percent decrease from 1982.

The crime clock should be viewed with care. Being the most aggregate representation of UICR data, it is designed to convey the annual reported crime experience by showing the relative frequency of occurrence of the Index Offenses. This mode of display should not be taken to imply a regularity in the commission of the Part I Offenses; rather, it represents the annual ratio of crime to fixed time intervals.

PART I. CRIME AND POPULATION IN ALASKA

The basic measurements used for crime statistics is the number of Part I crimes per population base. This crime index rate is the number of incidents or crimes per 100,000 inhabitants. Table I is a comparison of the total Part I crimes and rates for Alaska for the period 1980 thru 1983. Table II shows the percentage of changes between 1982 and 1983 in the number of Part I crimes and in the crime index rate. Figure I is a graphical representation of the population growth, total Part I crimes and the total crime rate for Alaska for the 1980 thru 1983 time period.

Law Enforcement Officers Killed or Assaulted

Nationwide

In 1983, 80 law enforcement officers were feloniously killed in the line of duty. Nationwide, fewer officers were slain than in any year of the past decade.

Based on reports from nearly 10,000 city, county, and state law enforcement agencies across the country, assaults on officers, totaled 62,324 in 1983. On the average, for every 100 officers, 16.5 were assaulted and 5.5 suffered personal injuries as a result of the assaults.

Assaults on Federal officers totalled 580 for the year. Seven officers were killed in the line of duty and 78 were injured in the assaults.

Alaska

During 1983, one law enforcement officer was killed and 204 law enforcement officers were assaulted in Alaska. The total number of assaults has undergone a decrease of 25 percent compared to 1982. Sixty-three (31 percent) of these assaults occurred when officers were responding to disturbance calls. Thirty-two (16 percent) occurred when officers were handling/transporting prisoners, and the same number occurred while the officers were attempting other arrests. Of the officers assaulted, 37 (18 percent) sustained personal injury, most of these from hands, fists, or feet of the assailant.

Most assaults occurred to officers assigned to one-man vehicles, who were either alone at the time or were assisting other officers. Ninety-eight percent of assaults to police officers were cleared by arrest.

The 1983 national rate for law enforcement personnel is two officers for each 1000 United States inhabitants. In suburban areas, the national average is 1.9 officers per 1000 population. In Alaska, for 1983, the rate is 2.0 officers, per 1000 population. Nationwide, for all law enforcement personnel, 77 percent were officers and 23 percent were civilian employees. Ninety-four percent of the officers and 37 percent of the civilians were males. In Alaska, 59 percent of the law enforcement personnel were officers and 41 percent were civilian employees. Ninety-four percent of the officers and 29 percent of the civilians were males. It is significant that the varying demographics and jurisdictional characteristics affect the requirements for law enforcement personnel allocations in Alaska. Because of differing service requirements and responsibilities, care should be used when attempting any comparisons of employee rates.

Data Collection

Statistics and data pertaining to the Statewide Drug Enforcement program is a compilation of the FBI's Uniform Crime Report (UCR) information collected and compiled by the Department of Public Safety, the State Troopers Drug Enforcement Unit's individual reports and information from local police departments.

All local Alaska police departments enforce drug laws as do the Alaska State Troopers and the federal law enforcement agencies in Alaska. However, not all of these agencies report information to the UCR program, which is compiled by the Department of Public Safety.

Twenty-four (24) of the twenty-six (26) local police departments plus the Alaska State Troopers contributed data for 1983. Some smaller local police departments did not participate in the UCR data system. It should be noted that these agencies experience very few drug problems which do not involve one of the state drug enforcement units or one of the large police departments. These state drug enforcement units, or Alaska State Troopers, are usually contacted on any significant Alaska drug cases which involve federal law enforcement officers. Thus a comprehensive report of drug activity in Alaska is available by a critical review and assimilation of the data reported by the agencies participating in the UCR program along with the variable statistical data of non-UCR participating enforcement agencies.

The continuing goal of the Department of Public Safety is to establish a comprehensive report of total enforcement in Alaska.

Statistical Overview

The drug enforcement information for Alaska is the result of a dedicated effort to consolidate the complex reporting data involved in drug statistics. Drug trafficking and distribution are world-wide activities involving numerous persons. Drug Enforcement for the same reason is, and must continue to be a cooperative effort often involving many different agencies. The results detailed in the enclosed figures and tables are designed to be readily discernible by those reviewing the report. However, it should be noted that many police agencies and departments may be involved with an arrest or seizure listed in any particular region or agency. The main thrust of this report is to illustrate the primary area of jurisdiction in which a seizures or arrest occurred. In addition, the drug arrests or seizures which resulted from a cooperative effort of: Drug Enforcement Units, police Departments, Federal Agencies and State Troopers, were tabulated under the Special Drug Enforcement Unit involved. This methodology was designed to eliminate duplication of information and in no way detracts from the dedicated efforts by an agency involved.

It should be apparent that the true measurement of drug activity and investigative results is not readily available by simply editing the statistics furnished by the different enforcement agencies. This report has screened out duplicative information to the extent possible and efforts continue to further refine drug reporting in Alaska.

The Department of Public Safety was delegated the responsibility for the Alaska Uniform Crime Statistical Program in 1982. This Program is responsible for accumulating and publishing the statewide Alaska statistics for most major law enforcement agencies in Alaska. Summary drug statistics for the State of Alaska are included in the report as well as the Department of Public Safety "Annual Drug Report".

The following figures use certain common terms, which are explained, as follows:

Number of Arrests - Actual number of individuals arrested, cited or summoned for drug violations during the period specified.

Offense Charge - The basic charges used to describe the drug offense. The general charge categories are detailed below:

Sale/Narcotics - Possessions for sale or criminal activity relating to sale of opium, herion, morphine, cocaine, codeine or related drugs.

Sale/Marijuana - Possession for sale or criminal activity relating to sale of hashish, marijuana or other related drugs.

Sale/Synthetic Narcotics - Possession for sale or criminal activity relating to sale of methadone, demerol or related drugs.

Sale/Dangerous Drugs - Possession for sale or criminal activity relating to sale of barbiturates, amphetamines, benzedrine, hallucinogens, tranquilizers, LSD or related drugs.

Use/Narcotics - Possession for use, furnish, transport, manufacture, cultivate or obtain unlawfully: opium, heroin, morphine, cocaine, codeine or related drugs.

Use/Marijuana - Possession for use, furnish, transport, manufacture, cultivate or obtain unlawfully: hashish, marijuana or other related drugs.

Use/Dangerous Drugs - Possession for use, furnish, transport, manufacture, cultivate, obtain unlawfully: barbiturates, amphetamines, benzedrine, hallucinogens, tranquilizer, LSD or other related drugs.

Number of Arrests Under 18 - Juvenile drug offenders arrested up to, but not including 18 years old at time of offense.

Number of arrests 18 or Over - Drug offenders 18 or older at time of offense.

Total Drug Cases Investigated - Number of drug-related offenses or cases reported for the period specified.

Percentage (%) change compared to previous year - This percentage figure compares the current year value against the previous year and can be either positive (+) if increasing, or negative (-) if decreasing. The formula for this percentage comparison is:

$$\% \text{ change for} = \frac{(\text{current yr. value}) - (\text{previous yr. value})}{\text{previous yr. value}} \times 100$$

Drug Seizure - Amount of drugs seized during the reporting period. The standard reporting units used for seizure of drugs is as follows:

- a. Heroin - weight in grams
- b. Cocaine - weight in grams
- c. Hashish - weight in grams
- d. Marijuana - weight in pounds and ounces
- e. Pharmaceutical Drugs - dosage unit (DU) for specified drug.

Drug Value - The street value of the specified drug seized. This value is determined as a state-wide value based on the volume of the drug on the illicit state market during the period specified. It should be noted that a drug purchased in large quantity which is relatively pure will have a street value far in excess of the initial price paid for the drug.

Drug Report Analysis

The drug enforcement program direction and enforcement philosophy was changed significantly in 1983. The central state-level coordination of the activities of all specialized drug units throughout the State was the primary impetus. The results, shown in the table below indicate that dramatic increases in seizures, changes and arrests occurred in 1983 when compared to 1982, at only a small increase in personnel and budget.

The same percentage increases may also be shown on a bar graph to portray the results of 1983 compared to those of 1982, as shown on the following page.
